Women's Institutes of Nova Scotia is a rural-based volunteer organization, active in the province since 1913. It continues to be the province's largest rural women's organization with over 20 Branches located across Nova Scotia.

Women's Institute Members network within their own community, their province and across the world to create positive changes, here at home and abroad. We develop educational programs for our Members, contribute to the social well-being of our communities and enhance the quality of life for many individuals.

Women's Institute Members know 'how to get things done'!

We are part of the world's largest rural women's organization, the Associated Country Women of the World, with more than millions of members world-wide and we also belong to our national affiliation, the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

Women's Institutes is one of the most well-respected volunteer organizations in Nova Scotia and we are proud of the impact that our volunteers make.
